It is one of the top five streaming platforms for digital music sales, and for that reason I am going to list it under Streaming Platforms. You can upload your video clips to Coub, and you can decide on the length you want to play them. The length you choose to play will depend on how much time you want to include in your video. Coub lets you preview your video clip before actually uploading it to the platform. Another feature is that you can put a soundtrack to your video clip, like other YouTube videos. Coub is good for creating videos to share to the world, especially for those who want to make professional videos for marketing purposes. If you have a laptop or desktop PC, you might want to consider the use of Camtasia software for recording videos. Camtasia is a professional quality video recorder. Although it is more expensive than Coub, it has more features, and it can be used to create high quality videos for marketing purposes. If you have a Macbook or MacBook Pro, then Camtasia is available for download. If you are going to use Camtasia, then you should understand that its coding is not done by programmers, but by companies who make Camtasia software. They have apps that are good for the computer systems, but as you have seen, other companies, like Coub, have their own apps. Camtasia has a camera, and you can record audio. Camtasia is really good for creating professional quality videos that can be uploaded to YouTube and other streaming platforms for marketing purposes. I know you can get them from Camtasia at a cheap price, but you should also know that when you are using a free software, that you should have complete control over the product. If you want to make a video without having to pay a ton of money, then there is one other streaming platform that you should consider using. It is called Urge. Urge is free to use, and the videos can be played on mobile devices. You can connect with other users of the platform, and share your videos with them. One other way to share your videos on the internet is through hosting your videos online. The best streaming platform for video is YouTube, but if you can't afford the fee or want to create videos that you can share on other platforms, you should know that there are other options out there. In addition to using streaming platforms, if you want to get your 82157476af
